MORTEN TVETEN, BUS. MGR.

MARGARET REUTER, ADVISER

WE, the students of Lincoln High School of Manitowoc, Wisconsin, grateful to our nation, our state, and our city for the privilege of education granted us, to show our appreciation, shall aim to co-operate with others in all student activities for the welfare of the school, to be loyal to our school, and to develop in ourselves an appreciation of that liberty and freedom of government that our forefathers bequeathed to us, and among our forefathers, especially that man after whom this school has been named, Abraham Lincoln.

PATHWAY TO LEARNING. (above) fringed with sunshine and shade, even as our school days, is the beautiful entrance to Lincoln.

Changing President Lincoln's famous phrases around a bit, Lincoln High inaugurated its new government "of the students, by the students, for the students", last fall, with the election of a student council.

Choosing two of the councilors, Lenore John and Kenneth Schmitt, to personify the typical student members, the Flambeau takes you, with them, through the duties and pleasures of this body.

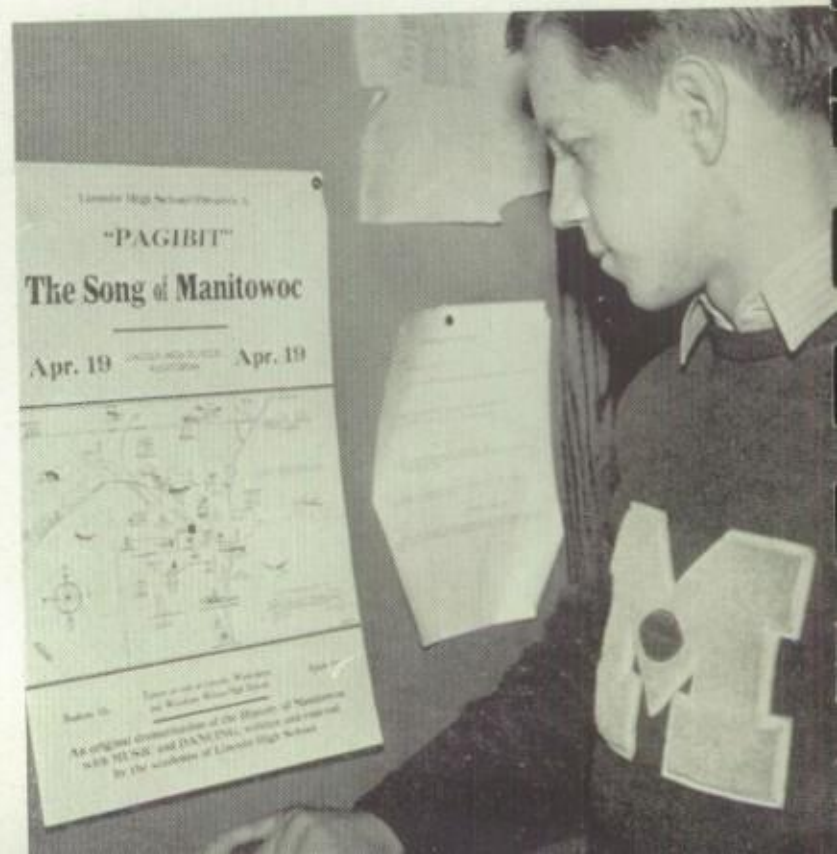

Under the leadership of Paul Kelley, senior, several reforms have been introduced; namely, the study hall monitors, and the newly adopted prom ordinances. The latter occasioned many a hotly contested battle, but this year Lincolnites were tucked in a little earlier than usual on prom night, all due to the Council's efforts.

Administering justice to students,

By more democratic methods, the Council, solving Lincoln's problems, contributes to our independence and success.

JUST LOOKING, Kenneth Schmitt scans the posters of the Pagibit, press-agented by the Council.

With sessions lasting several hours, members bring their own lunch—to stave off immediate starvation and malnutrition—and munch contentedly, solving the thorny problems of "What dance records to get for the pre-prom dance?" and "How to eat a collapsible sandwich?" at the same time.

Watched over by Mr. Ernest Ludwig, who doesn't mind the job at all, the Student Council is certain to be the "coming thing" in student government.

The Flambeau's irrepressible photographer, popping out of dark corners and other unexpected places, snapped a few of the "venerables" offguard, with the results on the following pages. Topics include curlers, baths, and sandwiches—for the councilors, though weighted down with school problems, are just "ordinary humans" with appetites and straight locks, even as you and I.

UPPER RIGHT

TIME OUT, meetings often run over the noonhour, so Lenore John and Kenneth Schmitt double up on eating and learning parliamentary procedure at the same time.

ONLY THE BEST of these records will be used at the council dance—Lenore John selecting.

LEADER for reform in the prom regulations is Bonnie Ludwig, junior, presenting her views on the subject for the approval of a council committee.

ABSORBED in his talk is Howard Goodhew, junior, heading a committee discussion on conduct in the study halls. A system of monitors solved the problem.

EARNESTLY DISCUSSING the prom situation, as committee members on that troublesome topic, are: left, Paul Kelley, Gretchen Thiede, and John Loef, seniors. The final outcome of all the heated arguments was a set of prom ordinances which provided for stricter supervision and solved everybody's worries nicely, even to proving that this year's prom was the biggest success in many years.

INVADING a lady's boudoir for this intimate snap, we find Lenore John, senior, busily engaged in packing. The occasion? A meeting of high school student councils in Madison. Our subject isn't quite ready to go — note the curlers — but don't worry, what woman ever is on time!

REACHING for a towel is Kenneth Schmitt, senior, also bound to Madison for the convention. Caught in a very homey pose, he doesn't seem a bit disconcerted over the prospect of being watched. Wonder who is handing him that Turkish towel? Could it be the photographer?

home and abroad

BUSILY CONDUCTING a student council meeting (right) is Paul Kelley, senior, president of the group. The members listen attentively, as all good councilors should, to Kelley's discussion, while Mr. Ernest Ludwig smiles genially at the whole business. The library is the scene of this get-together.

CONTINUOUS EXISTENCE — that seems to be the prospect for Lincoln's Council. The Council will have an active committee, even during vacation. Three members, Bonnie Ludwig, William Thoke, and Howard Goodhew, were appointed to organize the group next fall and to dispatch whatever business may arise.

REPRESENTATIVES of our student government—the Student Council.

A LITTLE WINDOW PEEPING brought this shot of, left, William Thoke, Ruth Dufek, Morten Tveten, and Donald Petrick, committee on relieving the study hall problem. Ruth's explanation apparently has little effect on Morten.

Composites are by Robert Bayne, Flambeau photographer, listed as one of the youngest photo-engravers in the United States by the EDITOR AND PUBLISHER, newspapermen's weekly.

is all I ask of you

he asked Will I ever find my ideal? Take Caroline, for instance. Her eyes have IT, but her nose is too sharp to be pretty. Lots of girls are good-looking in one way, but the perfect girl is still my dream.

Well, girls, here is the man of the hour whose features are those of eight prominent senior boys.

Everyone has an ideal. Whether he be tall and blonde, a typical V-man, or the slender Latin type depends on the individual. Seldom, if ever, is that ideal realized, yet often someone has one feature that measures up to the standard.

The fellow across from you in English may have the most atrocious hair, the kind with a cowlick at the back. But those soft, brown, puppy-like eyes that follow you so faithfully can cause your heart to rhumba at a glance. Or perhaps you admire that athlete who struts down the hall and condescends to smile at you now and then. His slightly banged-up face only arouses hero-worship in your heart.

Lincoln's feminine population much prefers real men, and a real man is the result of their votes.

Chosen as the most striking eyes were Owen Clark's, senior class president, and no wonder. Any girl would envy him for his dark eyes and eyelashes. Paul Mitnacht's eyebrows, black as coal, and Jim Mrotek's ears, combined with Harry Sykora's clean-cut lips helped complete the picture. A Roman nose is the factor that brought Paul Kelley, Student Council president, into additional limelight. Above John Loef's well-built neck, the class would like to see Bob Boedy's square-cut jaw. Top it all with Ben Skatrud's unruly curls and you have Lincoln's ideal senior boy. He's the boy who keeps out of public places for fear of being mobbed, and who plugs up his telephone to stop those Leap Year calls.

she replied Since you're so fussy about your dates, there's only one way to satisfy you. We'll conduct a Flambeau survey, and with the aid of Bob Bayne's camera and Irene McNeil's pencil, your votes will show us the perfect girl.

Well, boys, here is your perfect specimen whose features have been borrowed from seven senior girls.

You date 'em, and over-rate them, extol their virtues and vices, and all-in-all hash them over pretty well. After all your discussions, you're still back where you started from, convinced that she has gorgeous hair, but what a puss!

Besides showing you your ideal, we prove that Lincoln's senior class definitely does not like glamor-girls. You don't believe it? Then read the results of the ideal-senior poll.

Any girl with Lenore John's cute little pug-nose isn't one bit interested as far as glamor is concerned, but she knows what a swell sense of humor means, and that's necessary.

Determination also is an asset, or why would Lorraine Rice's pugnacious little chin have been selected to set off Doris Wage's slender throat?

Lips with a lot of "oomph" are Mildred Bauer's and, as a result, they're every senior boy's ideal.

Coquettish eyes, and big brown ones at that, set Jane Zeman apart from any other senior; and Ruth Schmitt's high arched brows add the finishing touch.

Long, casually dressed hair completes the picture. The crowning glory is Audrey Lewis'; and whether she knows it or not, it's the envy of every gal on the third floor. Combine them and you have Lincoln's girl who is so swamped with dates she has to keep a date book.

Better EDUCATION Is

Board of Education

IN THIS democracy of ours, it is the duty and privilege of the people to elect representatives who will perpetuate our customs and ideals for succeeding generations. Of no minor importance is the choice of a Board of Education, whose policies are instrumental in shaping the lives of today's youth, tomorrow's citizens.

The seven members of the Board are elected for terms of three years. They meet regularly to approve accounts for the past month and to check school services. A budget is prepared for each fiscal year, covering the entire municipal school system. This provides for buildings, cost of maintenance, equipment, salaries, etc. The Board functions mainly as a policy-making body.

The sole remuneration the members of the Board of Education receive for their services is the satisfaction that they have fulfilled their obligation as citizens, and the pleasure they receive in taking an active interest in the educational program of youth.

This year Mr. Robert E. Lindwall, a former member of the Lincoln High School faculty, succeeds Mr. Oscar Bieberitz, retiring member, to the Board.

Their Policy

HUGH S. BONAR . . . To Superintendent Bonar can be accredited much of the progress of Manitowoc's school system. Mr. Bonar, Kiwanian and Legionnaire, has served as presiding officer on several state educational committees. As chairman of the Committee on Induction into Citizenship of the National Education Association, he has succeeded in securing national recognition for Manitowoc's Citizenship Day.

CHARLES G. STANGEL . . . Principal Stangel, as chief executive of Lincoln High School, embodies all the dignity and character so invaluable to his position. Interested in civic as well as educational affairs, Mr. Stangel is a member of the Manitowoc chapter of the Rotary International and state president of the Isaac Walton League.

all work, no play would make a dull world. In order to show how to keep on the bright side of things, let's take a peep into teachers' lives "after business hours."

MISS MILLER

When fans go wild and the score is close,
She does her cheering atop the goalpost!

MR. GUEPE

Deep in slumber lies Mr. Guepe,
"Sawing away" on championship.

MR. ERICKSON

Anything for a novel shot!
Watch out Mr. E., it may cost a lot.

MISS RITCHIE

With a skillful fork and craving for sour,
She could eat sauerkraut by the hour.

MISS RUDOLPH

With steady hand and eagle eyes,
She hits the target each time she tries

MR. PACETTI

Don't drop that dish, although surprised,
You're the type of husband that's sought and prized.

MR. MEISNEST

Jack's prize beanstalk, long ago,
Has nothing on how "Pop's" flowers grow.

MR. ZERAN

To her, Papa's theories mean nothing at all,
Spry little Mary would rather play ball.

MR. BOYD

For him a hymn is relaxation,
Bands and orchestras, recreation.

MISS REUTER

Her bedside manner's way above par,
She makes them recover, the Great Miss "R".

WRATH RISES

AS DAD'S

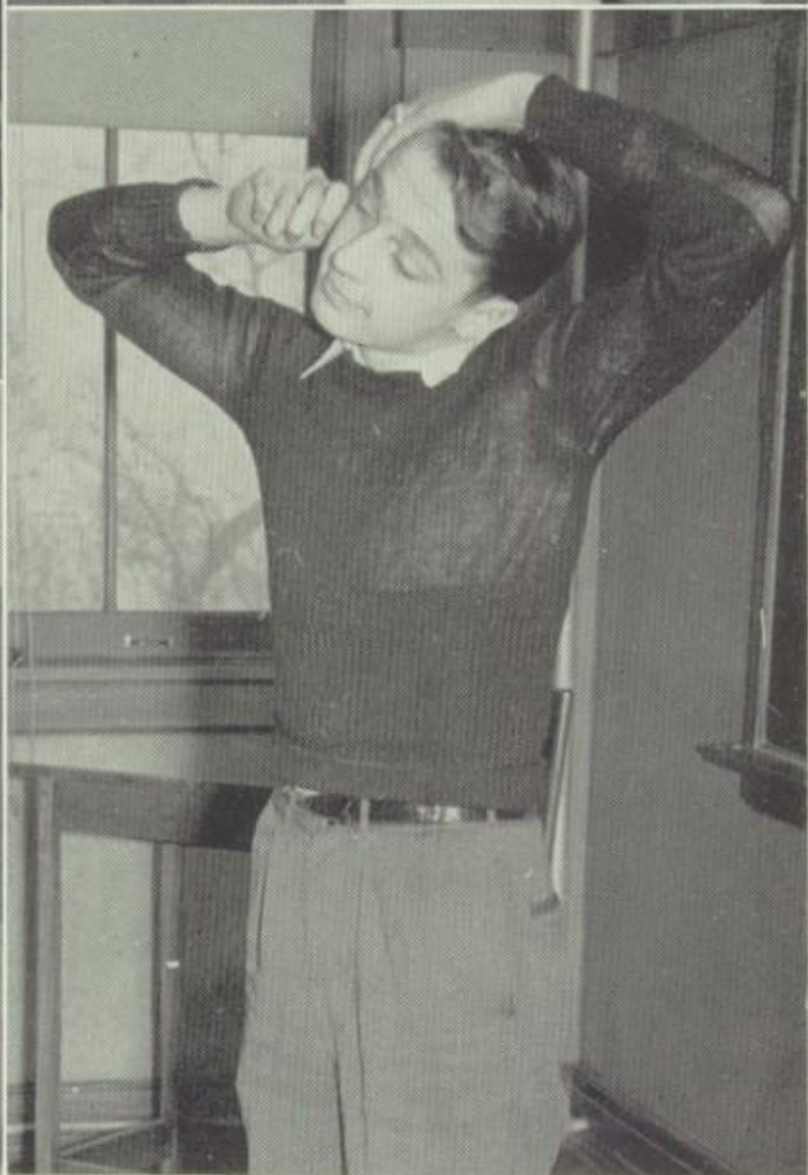

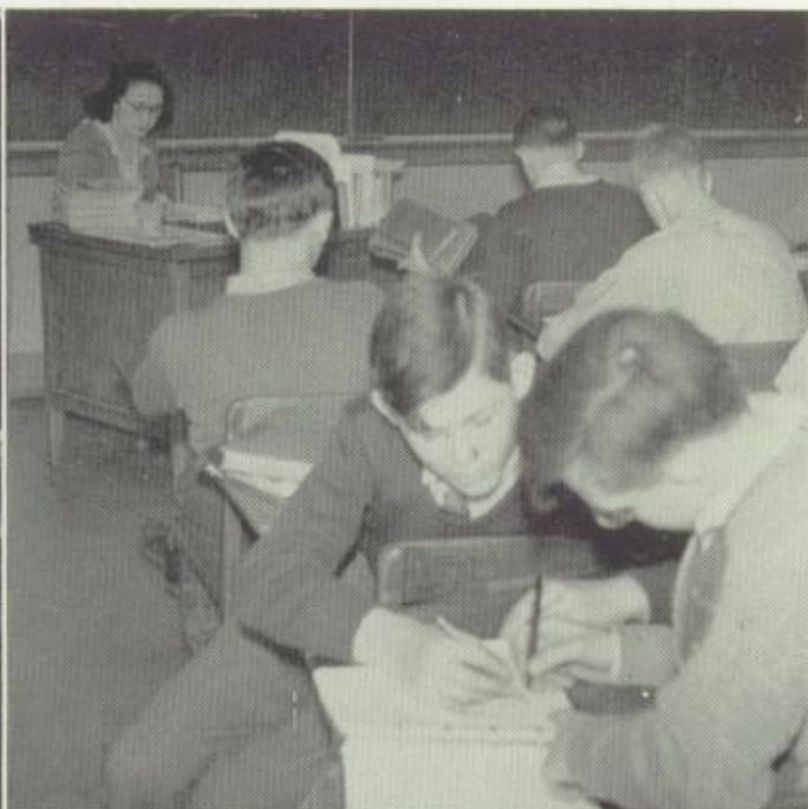

Mr. Harlan G. Groffman, parent

Pig-skin proficiency is "Red" Tadych's, and after witnessing his dead-eye on the basketball floor, it was no surprise to see him equally adept with the T-square in Drafting class. Amid an air of general preoccupation he sat, looking too serious to be his usual self, and really worked!

Life's fun in third-year Math when you can work the problems. Witness the smile on Bob Winter's face as Bill Thoke and Kenny Rusch are caught by the camera Paul Mittnacht's concern over Contemporary Literature isn't because of Elaine Nelson's grin; it's in spite of it.

A shaving novice is Norma Rudie as is obvious from her pantomime in Dramatics class Bob Kelley and John Dalrymple are conscientiously mastering one of those French sticklers. Probably it's "avoir" which is always irregular and a demon.

"May I help you" is a familiar phrase to the Retail Selling class. Rosemary Cox, buying a book for a sick friend, is attended by Lucille Bull With true masculine aplomb, Bob Ferguson removes the fuzz from his face (in pantomime, of course), showing the Dramatics class "how it's done."

From above, these Latin students are taught how Rome protected her legions in camp. Caesar's military tactics and Cicero's life are familiar stories to them. Apparently "Mac" McCambridge and Jean McConnell find the encampment amusing, but Barbara Mrotek is too, too serious.

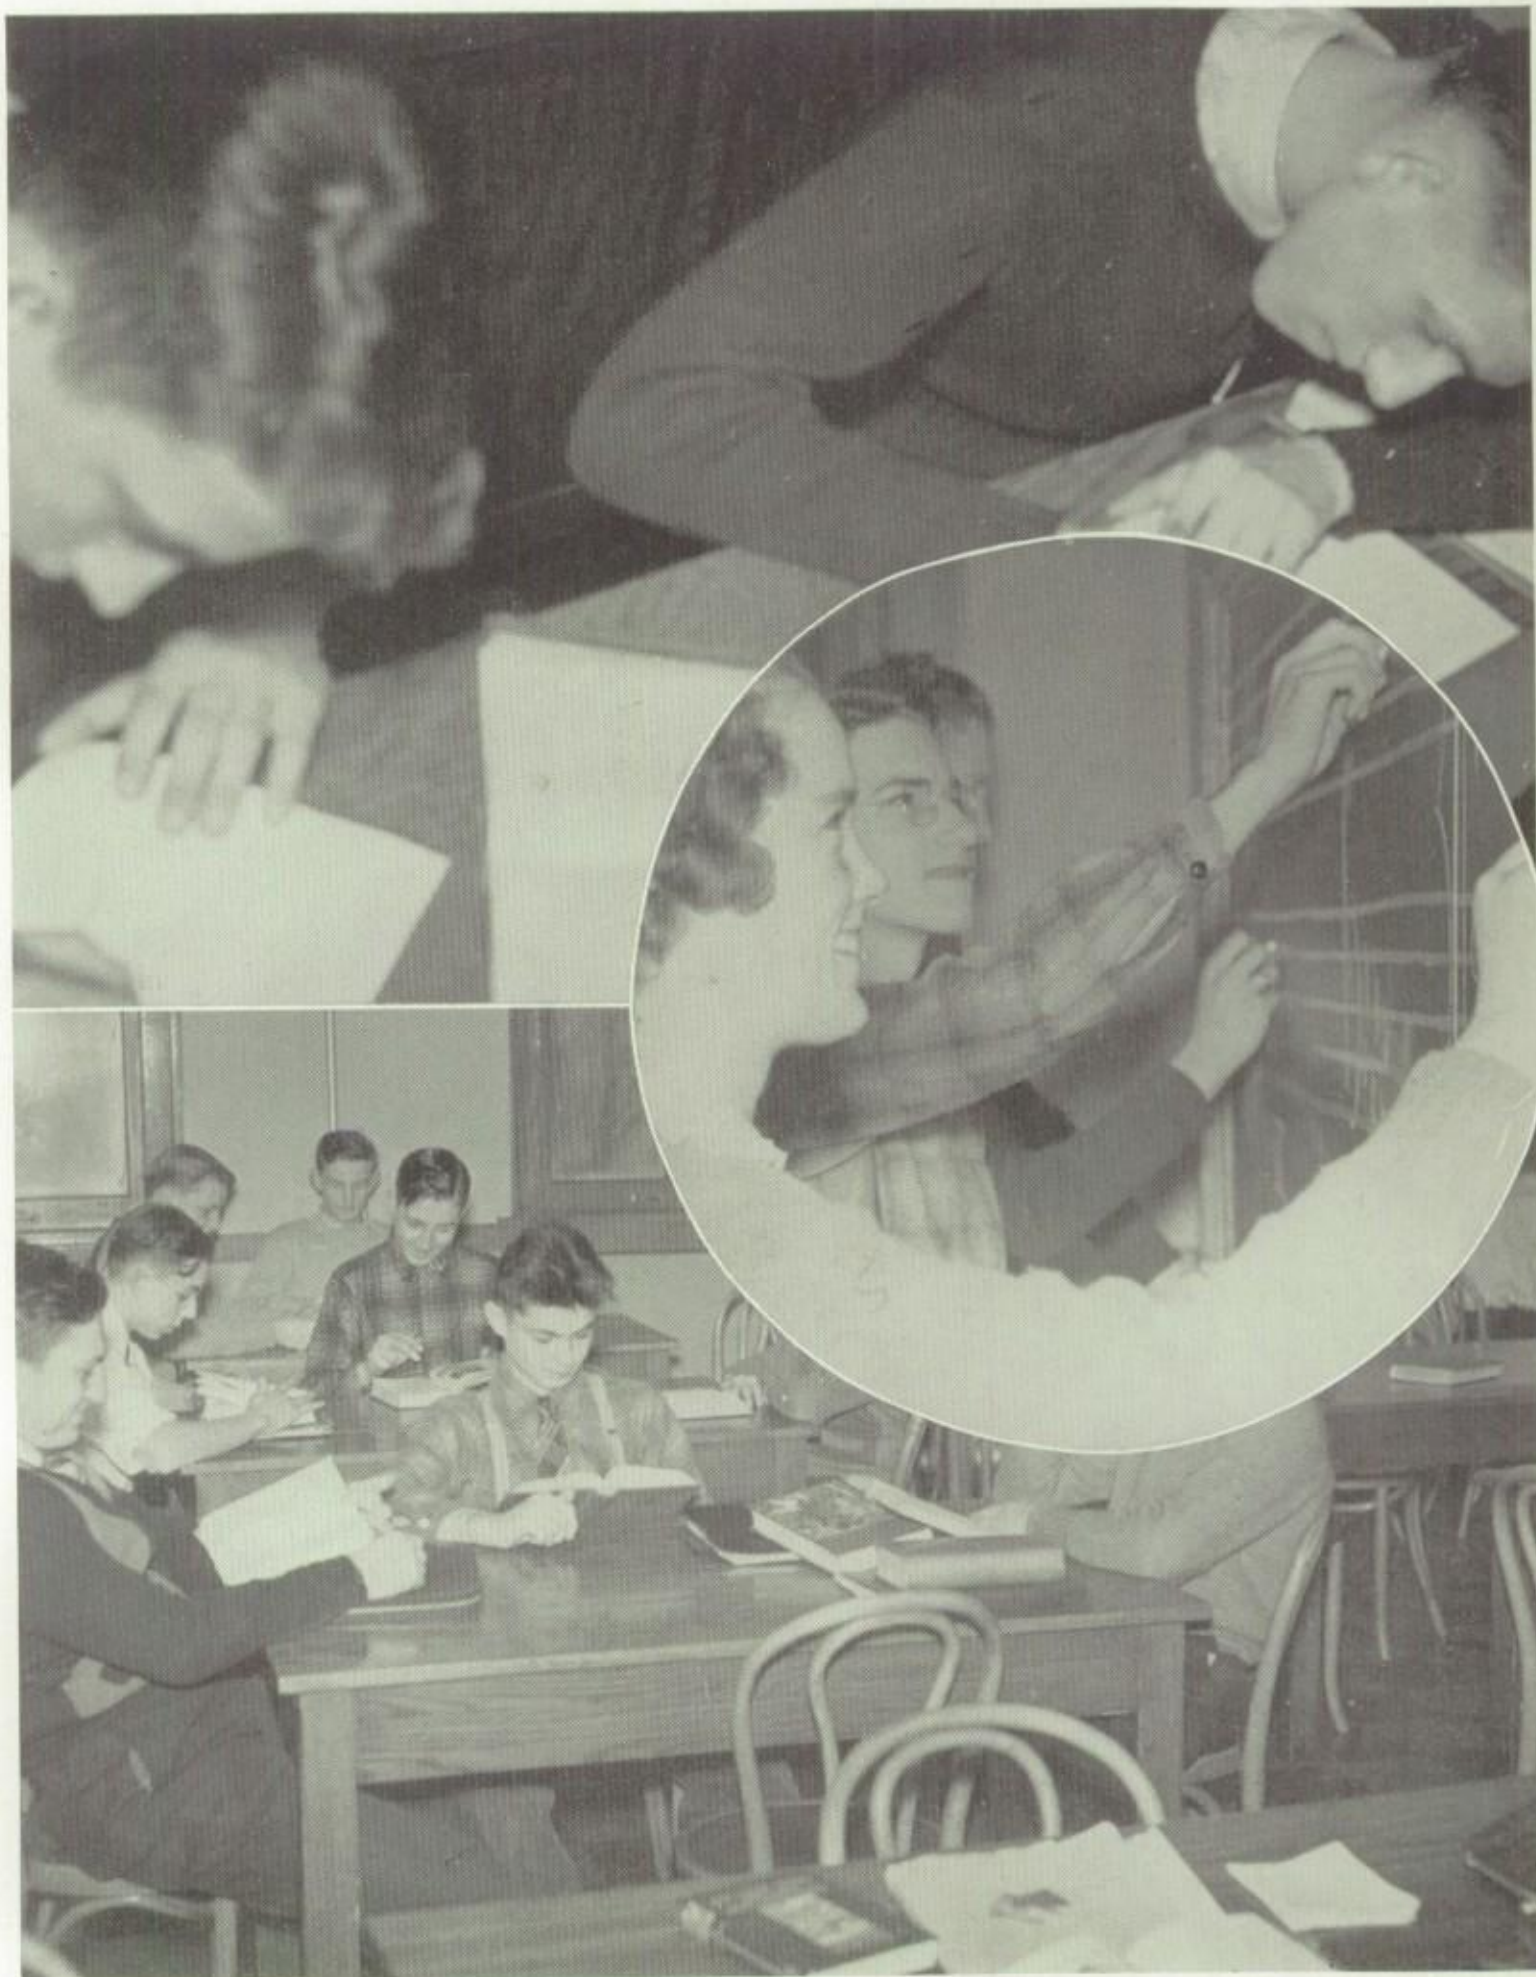

Sound is the Physics project shown here. While Doris Wage holds a metal tube in a cylinder of water, Don Swoboda touches it with the vibrating tuning fork, causing a bell-like tone. "Skates" Zygmunt is almost pop-eyed with enthusiasm and even Max Tauschek has lost his sleepy air.

"A house divided," so to speak, as Deloris Roepke explains to Herman Lutz what hills are and where to find the stars in Earth Science. Not a bad subject if Nature's your strong point Pounding a comptometer in Office Practice class is hard on fingernails, but Alice Stanelle doesn't mind.

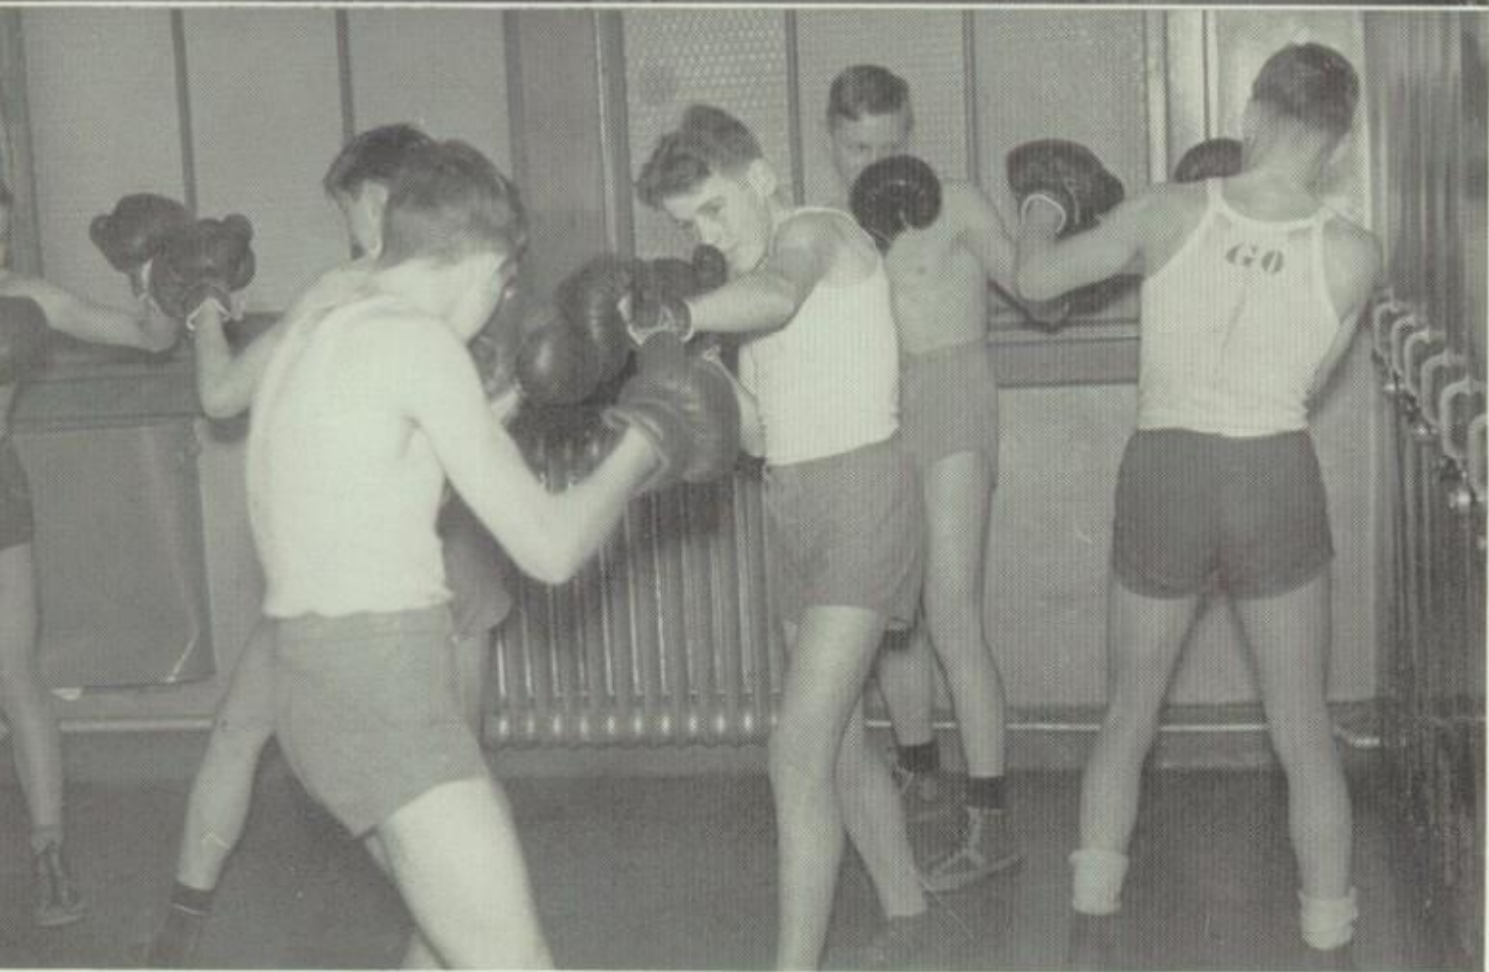

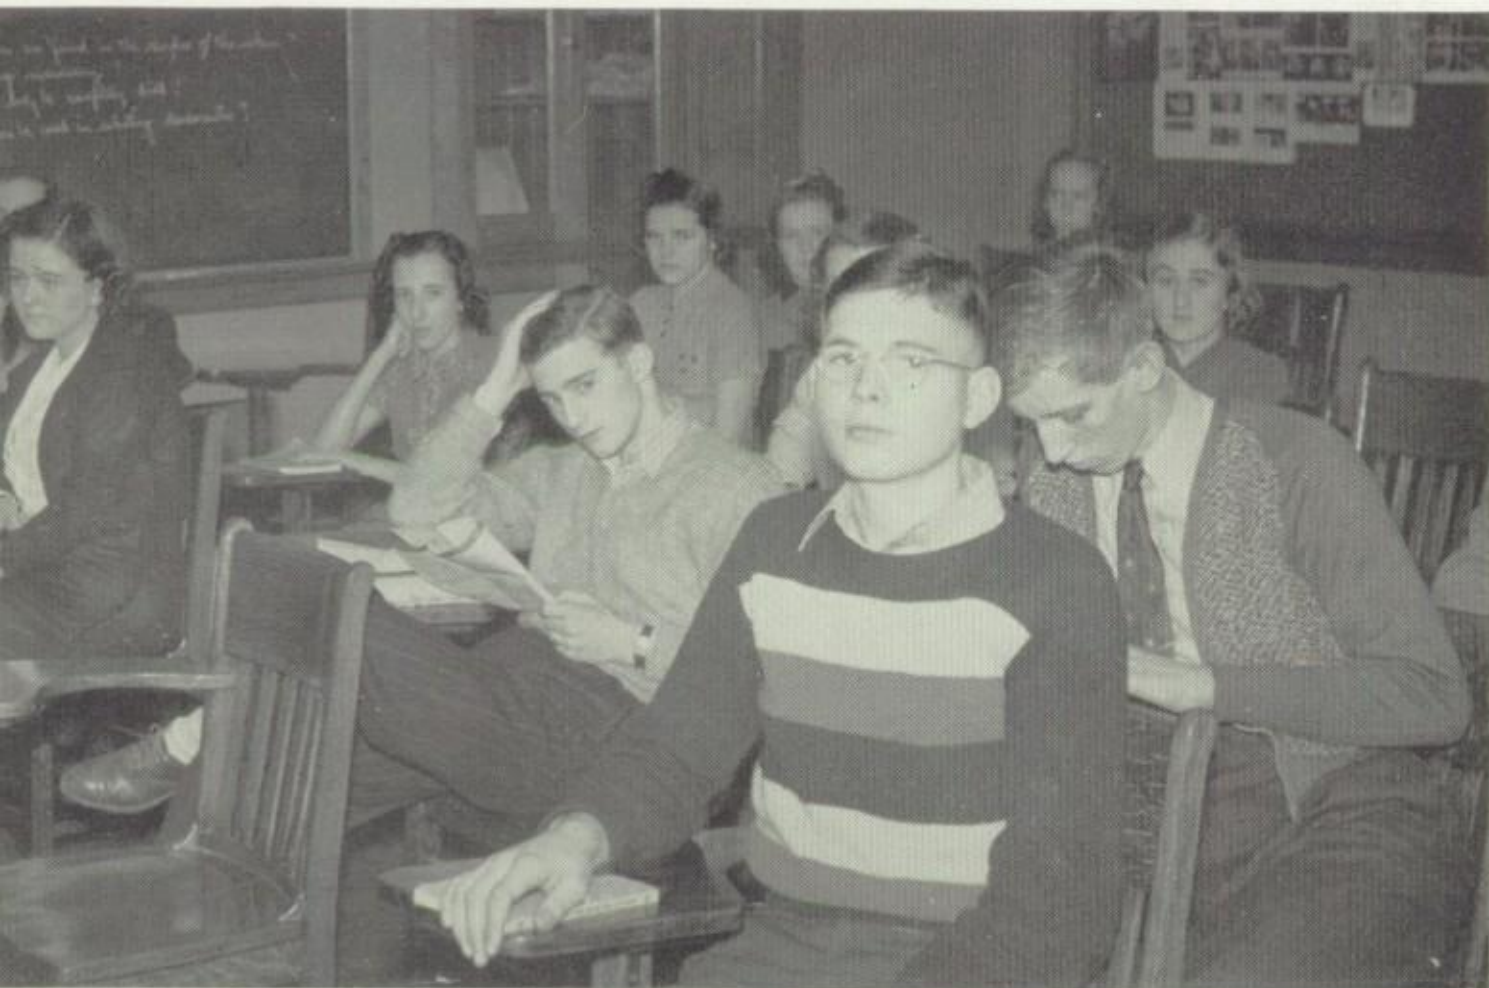

An experiment on the protein content of a food in Biology always means a test-tube and Bunsen burner, and this one's no exception. Ella Jean Haese, an interested spectator, watches as Carol Jane Phalen, with the aid of wooden tongs, applies heat, an elementary step in all experiments.

Working with figures is an art, especially when the ciphers are over the thousand mark, but Al Strong and Oscar Fick seem to enjoy Bookkeeping class Lone Krueger's grin can mean but one thing, she and Jim Gloe understand all those numbers below the staffs in Harmony class.

Too studious-looking to be natural, these boys in the new Remedial English class find that this study helps them read their History and English. Marvin Strzyzewski and Eugene Sieracki have a joke all their own; and Norbert Thor, Edmund Leschke, LeRoy Sprang, and Ralph Gilbert are in on it.

Pugnacious-looking Lester Landvatter seems to be contemplating whether or not to strike, but Donald Drews just studies. Jim Mrotek smoothed that wave into his hair as the camera snapped. Outside of learning the "why and wherefores" of Health and Safety, these students act just like the rest of us.

Pugilistic tendencies are fostered in our Gym classes as this picture testifies. Instead of learning the gentle art of self-defense lying flat on the mat, these boys are matched with others their size. That last sock Fred Eberhardt took didn't quite land, but after all, the lens wasn't open.

Scissors in hand, Marvin Lishka is learning one of the first duties of a Journalism cub, that of keeping a string book Music soothes the savage beast, and while not classing Jack Kestly, Stuart Wetenkamp, and Jean Stockinger among the ferocious, it must be admitted that they're enjoying Music Appreciation.

You're pretty friendly with that skeleton, Billy. He gives us the shivers. Because familiarity breeds contempt, Billy Schultz, Dorothy Schoenwald, and Jeanette Nichols laugh disdainfully when they meet the ghostly one in Biology In the Library, Harland Manthey and Dick Egan are caught exploring the dictionary.

Doting parents

smile proudly as Johnny shows Mr. Ernest Ludwig that he knows his stuff in Math class. At Night School each Lincoln student approaches the door shining with well applied elbow-grease, hoping that Pop won't be there if he makes a mistake, but Pop always is.

The twinkle in Jack Hagarty's eye betrays that something other than History is on his mind. Mary Gibbs, on the other hand, is too engrossed to jump when the flash bulb explodes Shirley Wedertz doesn't mind kibitzers at all. Her Art class-mate, Nathan Nass, has the over-the-shoulder technique.

On Dress Parade

Amid drums thundering and brasses blaring, a touchdown is born and the crowd goes wild. The football band follows the team with a sour note for disappointments and a sweet one for victories.

FOOTBALL BAND

Second File—Beverly Rand, Lillian Kellner, Jane Sieker, Charlotte Cisler, Leland Stueber, Rene Schwalbe, Cletus Zinkel, George Reedy, John Hahn.

Third File—Robert Hansen, Madrene Kozlovsky, Ruth Butz, Hugo Drumm, Eugene Heier, Rudie Ginzl, Anita Biesemeyer, Albert Engel.

Fourth File—Eden Kloida, Jane Hertel, Jane Herzog, Lloyd Hynek, Calvin Weyer, James Gloe, James Moldenhauer, Joan Jansen, Charles Harvey.

Fifth File—Max Bauer, Athniel Stuebbe, Betty Jayne Ascher, Jacquelyn Liebert, Earl Lettenberger, Robert Berkedal, Robert Eck, William Gloe, Esther Schultz.

FOR LINCOLN

Every band must have a leader. Gerald Hall, senior, below right, occupies the head position in the Lincoln band as he marches down the field twirling a "mean stick". Charles Randolph, sophomore, follows Gerald and holds the position of chief "whistle blower." Drum majors extraordinary are "Jerry" and "Chuck".

BANNER WAVING

FLAG AFLOAT

Left — Proudly carrying the flag of the United States is Robert Winter, senior, as he parades down the right flank of the band. This "flag bearing" is really serious work when the wind is blowing. If you don't think so, just ask Bob.

 5,280 feet = 1 mile
 1 mile = 1 set of chimes

This year the big project sponsored by the Band Mothers was the "mile of pennies" campaign which enabled them to buy a set of chimes for the Lincoln band. They were presented to the band by Mrs. Donald Adams, president, in March.

The Band Mothers have, during their nine years of existence, raised funds to send the band to other cities for exchange concerts and to the annual tournaments. The 260 members try to provide things for the band which the School Board does not feel are necessities. They meet once a month.

The State Association of Band Mothers, of which Mrs. G. S. Rand is president, held their district convention in Manitowoc this year.

The officers of this organization are: president, Mrs. Donald Adams; vice-president, Mrs. Herman Schirner; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Moldenhauer; treasurer, Mrs. Adolph Cisler.

Latest acquisition of the band is the set of chimes donated by the Band Mothers whose "mile of pennies" campaign provided funds for the purchase. Examining their new "pride and joy" are band members James Gloe, Ione Krueger, and Robert Winter.

Our musicians cannot thrive on their genius alone, so when Lincoln was host to the Wauwatosa band, the Band Mothers were on hand to satisfy the hungry players when lunch time came around. Members of the committee were (left) Mrs. Herman Schirner, Mrs. Donald Adams, president of Band Mothers, Mrs. August Gloe, Mrs. Arthur Moldenhauer, and Mrs. Floyd Harvey.

A MILE OF PENNIES HELPED

"Swing and sway is still okay," say these fighting gridders, who neglect their musically-minded comrades — but only during football season. Top row, left to right — Robert Verkins, Kenneth Berkedal, and Harry Sykora. Bottom row, left to right — Robert Wellhoefer and Gardy Weber.

WHEN sweet music is wanted, who provides it? The orchestra, of course.

The watchful eye, or rather ear, of Mr. Rufin Boyd ferrets out any prospective talent from the student body, while his musicians become more expert in the art of creating pleasant sounds.

Of the two divisions of the orchestra, the band instruments are chosen from the band exclusively, while the string instruments are selected from the school at large.

Flutes, violins, basses, cornets, cellos, horns, percussion (drums to you): you'll find them all, and more, played by the best musicians that the school affords.

These mighty musicians spend hours practicing to perfect that last line of the overture for the class play or the one-act play festival.

Members of each section are seated according to ability. If one member of a section considers himself a better player than the person occupying a higher chair, he challenges him. The orchestra votes, and the winner takes the higher chair.

OF NOTE

and voices too

THERE'S music in the air, and with it is the laughter, fun, and gaiety that comes with doing work you enjoy. So it is each Tuesday and Thursday when the Mixed Chorus of Lincoln High School meets to work in harmony.

Under the baton of Mr. Elwyn Weinandt, 1940's addition to the music department, the eighty-five selected students assemble to form one of the largest choruses ever had at Lincoln.

This year, semi-popular pieces have been introduced for choral work and have been accepted with great approval by all.

Three performances were made by the chorus; the annual Christmas program, the mid-winter festival, and the tournament. In addition to these, they lent their assistance in the Pagibit, and various other activities.

Among the songs presented for these concerts were: "Music When Soft Voices Die", "Curtains of Night", and "Riff Song".

ORATORY

Upper — Philip Revolinsky, Margaret Voss, and Loris Houghton, left to right, placed first, second, and third, respectively, in oratorical declamation. Revolinsky represented Lincoln in the Fox River Valley recital. Others who participated were Norman Reichard, Iris Nicholson, William Thoke, Leo Touhey and Joseph Kazda.

Dick Egan placed first in original oratory.

DECLAMATION

Center — In an elimination contest held to determine who was to represent Lincoln in the Fox River Valley declamatory contest, Alice Stanelle was selected. The contest held at Oshkosh was a non-decision recital. Elaine Klackner, Alice Stanelle, and Floraine Wehrwein, left to right, entered the state contest at Delafield. Floraine and Alice placed in the semi-finals.

EXTEMPORE

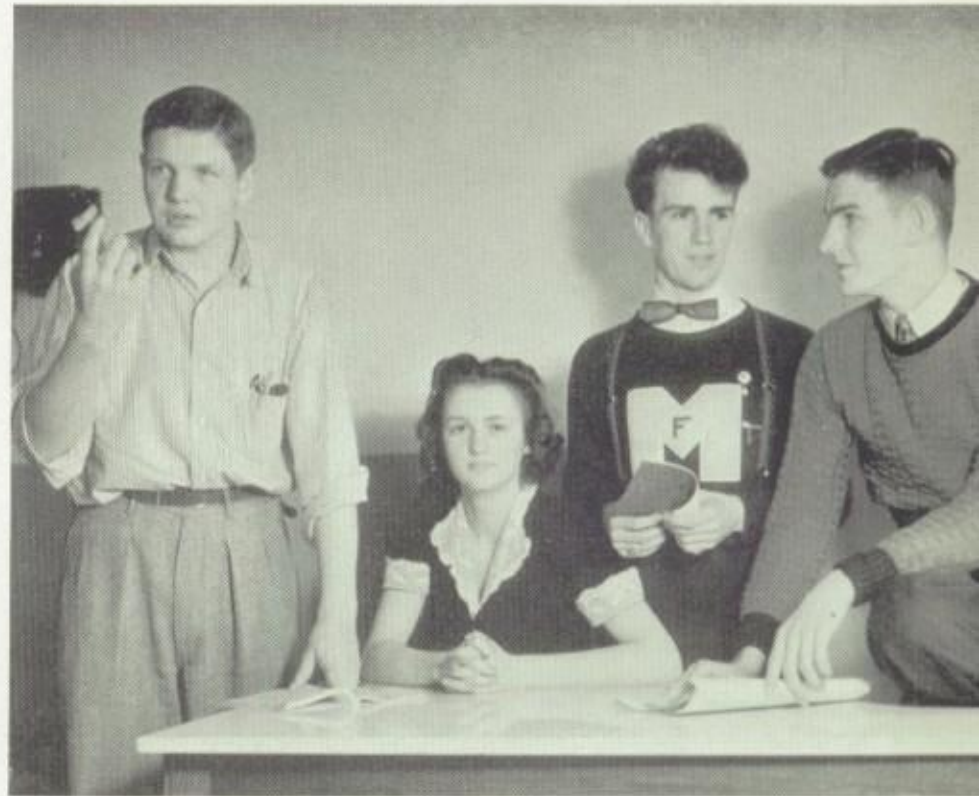

Lower — Lincoln's extempore speakers participated in two inter-scholastic contests, one at Sheboygan Central for sophomores, and the state contest at St. John's Military Academy, Delafield. At this meet, William Thoke, junior, and Erwin Meser, sophomore, right to left, gained a great deal of valuable experience. Next season will find them with both barrels loaded, prepared to give their all for Lincoln forensic activities.

ON YOUR FEET

Doing more than its part to insure the democratic future of America is the Forensics Department, which sends out students practiced in the art of quick thinking, and proficient in the ability to state their ideas concisely.

FINANCIAL limitations prevented Lincoln's entering a thoroughly experienced first team in the state tournament held at Marquette University. Seasoned with the comparatively small number of only ten preliminary debates, the squad made a surprisingly good showing against select competition, considering that the debaters were chosen largely from the ranks of underclassmen. The question for debate was on the subject of government ownership and operation of railroads. Three members of the first team, Margaret Voss, sophomore; and William Thoke and Dick Egan, juniors, will return next fall.

The second team entered a contest at Sheboygan, winning three out of eight decisions. They were also entered in the debate clinic in Milwaukee.

DEBATE — FIRST TEAM

Behind the scenes of Lincoln's drama, sits Mr. F. A. Novitski in solemn judgment. Pensive? Don't be too sure.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY

FAR from "Happy-Go-Lucky" was poor Aunt Stella Blake, Virginia Stout, when her convict "pen-pal" showed up, nearly scaring her out of her wits and providing the younger members of the family with considerable amusement. Senior actors brought their class play to a happy ending when Papa Marsh's business did not go bankrupt, thanks to mustached Baron Roselli, Paul Mittnacht, and little Uncle Andy Blake, Donald Petrick, who invented something that would actually work, the first time anyway.

Aunt Stella's "too friendly convict" turned out to be Tom Gordon, Jack Kestly, one of Gordon Marsh's, Leo Touhey, fun loving college friends. Tom looked and acted fairly civilized when relieved of his hobo garb; and love, as usual, found a way.

FOOT-LOOSE

"I WANT my Mama!" was a common cry in the Early home when mother and dad, Eileen Wagner and Kenneth Rusch, decided to take a world cruise and just let their eager family try its wings. As "Foot-Loose", the junior class play, progressed, complications arose finding the four Early children, Hope, Marylyn Vits; Dick, John Hahn; Bob, Bill Johnson; and Mary, Betty Wenndorf; more "at sea" than their vacationing parents.

There's always something new under the sun, and the 3 B's is Lincoln's first unsponsored club.

3 B's Club

SOMETHING new. Something old. They possess this in the 3 B's Club, (3 B's stands for Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms, three famous musicians and composers of bygone days). This is the first time a group of students have formed an unsponsored club. Mr. R. W. Boyd, however, helps them whenever he is asked.

The meetings which are held in the cafeteria are formal, but informal discussions usually follow. During their meetings, representative members of the twelve enrolled perform while the others listen and criticize. At some of the meetings, club members give reports on the lives and works of outstanding composers who have contributed considerable material toward establishing harmony for the future generations. Outside of schooltime, the group also presents musical programs for the Band Mothers and other prominent organizations.

Of the twelve members, only two are juniors; the rest are seniors. Because of the keen interest in the club, the junior members are already planning to organize again in their senior year.

Those who have contributed much to the development of the 3 B's are: president, James Gloe; vice-president, Wesley Teply; treasurer, Philemon Hensel; and secretary, Virginia Carbon.

AS YOU walk through the halls you hear the strains of sweet music coming from the music room. You recognize it as a contribution of the Girls' Glee Club, an organization of fifty members. Membership in this club is open to musically minded girls in Lincoln.

The club meets during the fourth hour on Mondays and Fridays under the direction of Miss Janice Collins. The girls are divided into the following divisions: sopranos, second sopranos, and altos.

The voices of these girls blend harmoniously as they sing their way into the hearts of their listeners with such beautiful songs as "Jeannie With The Light Brown Hair" and "The Heavens Resound". The club plans to give a concert over the local radio station this spring.

The Girls' Glee Club is conducted on a plan similar to other organizations. At the beginning of the year, the group chose officers. They were: Mary Louise Kautsky, president; Jeanne Koskamp, vice-president; and Ruth Kelnhofer, secretary-treasurer. The pianist was Ruth Schumacher.

HAVEN'T you at times found your history book to be rather dull? Wouldn't it be much more interesting to read facts about the countries written by the inhabitants themselves? The Foreign Relations Club thinks so.

The members carry on correspondence with the boys and girls of other countries and learn directly from them about their means of earning a living, their type of amusements, and how their school and social life compare with ours.

Of course, the war has definitely limited the number of countries with which members of the club can communicate, but there still are those who can and do answer their letters. Some countries place limitations on correspondence. France, for example, prohibits foreign correspondence between a boy and a girl. Nevertheless, the club members find letter-writing a fascinating way to study people of other countries.

The officers of the club are: president, Ellen McKee; vice-president, Nora Mangin; and secretary-treasurer, Gladys Pech.

Besides letter-writing, the club members invite speakers to tell them about their travels in other countries. Mr. Noble Anderson gave an interesting talk on his trip to Europe, and Jessie Houston entertained the club with a talk about her native land, Scotland. The members are planning to ask Miss Clara Prochazka to tell them about her travels in Mexico. In order to express their appreciation to the speakers who have entertained them, the club is arranging a party for them at the end of the year.

the world over

A woman seldom writes her Mind but in her Postscript . . . Steele

AS the name implies, the purpose of the Correspondence Club is to make friends in all parts of the country through the interesting medium of letter-writing. The members are all girls, but their correspondence is not restricted to the fairer sex; in fact, they seem to find that boys write very interesting letters. An attempt was made to correspond with students in foreign countries, but it was not successful. Perhaps the war is responsible for the unfavorable results.

However, the members can find a number of interesting people to write to, without going out of the boundaries of our own country. Through correspondence, they discover what the people in the various sections of our country are doing in the way of hobbies, amusements, school, and all the other things which go to make up an interesting life. Often a member finds someone who is very much interested in her favorite hobby, and then the correspondence takes on an added appeal.

When you stop to consider the fact that you can send a letter to any part of the United States or to most South American countries for the small sum of three cents, you begin to realize what an inexpensive and important means of communication letter-writing is for the modern world. To send first class mail to any European or Asiatic country, one must pay five cents for the first ounce; and, if you are inclined to write long letters, three cents for each additional ounce.

The officers are: Audrey Miller, president; Mary Ann Rohan, vice-president; Virginia Riederer, secretary; and June Jole, treasurer.

AT HOME

AN organization recently formed is the Sub-Deb Club, composed entirely of girls. These girls are becoming skilled in the niceties of the social whirl into which all young ladies are theoretically plunged after leaving school. Advised by Miss Irene Espeseth, they are becoming proficient in the rules set down by Emily Post on how to be more charming.

Since the club was formed in Leap Year, with all its traditional implications, they are certainly going to be prepared not to "miss a trick." Manners in this day and age are sometimes a forgotten art, and they intend to revive the art to its old standing.

To while away the spare moments and to appease healthy appetites, the girls occasionally serve a lunch. Of all the members, there isn't one who hasn't learned to appreciate a tasty snack.

The officers are: president, Marian Stangel; vice-president, Betty Lou Carey; secretary, Jean McConnell; treasurer, Faye Greene.

If all goes well with them, hereafter Lincoln can point with pride to its social leaders as former members of the Sub-Deb Club.

ON STAGE

COMBINING a little business with a lot of pleasure is the Talent Club, a group of students who furnish entertainment, upon call, to the various social organizations of the city.

When no calls come in for student talent, the members entertain themselves by writing skits and presenting them during club periods. Others who are musically inclined contribute their part to the programs. The dramatic skits are certain to hold interest for an audience, because the group is directed by Lincoln's drama coach, Mr. Frank Novitski.

For those who perform nobly on the mock stages, a grand prize is usually given; it may be something of great value, an all-day sucker or a penny candy bar, for instance.

One of the best presentations this year was a magicians' contest. As a result, Robert Kappelman, sophomore, was proclaimed the master magician of Lincoln High School. He won the honor by performing some super card tricks.

The leaders of this group of amateur artists are: president, John Pekarske; vice-president, Eleanore Huske; secretary, Donna Jule Corrello; and treasurer, Robert Kelley.

"THE pep meetings certainly have been swell this year."

"They surely have! Who has been planning them?"

"Why, didn't you know? The Red and White Club!"

Yes, the girls of the Red and White Club did plan those successful pep meetings. The modernized version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "The Three Bears" were two highlights in the series of organized pep assemblies.

The cheer leaders are prominent members of this club, but the entire group is responsible for the pep and enthusiasm at all of the football and basketball games and other school activities.

Under the supervision of Miss Lucille Gaedke, the club holds formal meetings every two weeks. Most of the discussion is devoted to finding new ways and improving the old attempts to incite student interest in the various sports.

The membership is composed entirely of senior girls, but several junior girls have been elected to continue the work of the organization next year.

The officers of the club are: president, Arlene Riebe; vice-president, Eleanore Huske; secretary, Helen Rudolph; treasurer, Marie Dushek.

ALTHOUGH it provides plenty of fun and entertainment, the Hi-Y is basically an educational club. This doesn't mean that the boys spend an hour reading an encyclopedia every meeting, but rather that the Hi-Y presents an interesting and varied program.

There are twenty-five girls in school who are acquainted with the Hi-Y, because they helped the club make a study of boy and girl relationships. It all started one meeting when the Hi-Y boys thought of some questions on which they wanted girls' opinions. They devised a questionnaire and distributed it to this select group. After the returns came in, the girls attended a Hi-Y meeting and retaliated with some "stickers" of their own. The girls also prepared a questionnaire and gave it to the boys. Rumor has it that the answers were enlightening.

The programs for the social meetings are usually given by the Hi-Y members themselves. It isn't uncommon for the listeners to shed tears of laughter while listening to Bill Donohue expound on "What To Do On A Date", or Jack Krohn on "What To Do Without One". Educational programs include serious discussion.

The officers are: Paul Kelley, president; LenRoy Koutnik, vice-president; Harry Sykora, secretary; Roy Steckmesser, treasurer; Arthur Albrecht, sergeant-at-arms; and Mr. Newton Jones, adviser.

THIS year the Photography Club has doubled its membership, added another adviser, Mr. Noble Anderson, to assist Mr. Edwin Erickson, and has a larger, better equipped dark room.

The work of the first semester was devoted to listening to talks given by students, and starting the beginners in developing, printing, and enlarging pictures. One of the projects of the club was taking their own pictures which appear in the Flambeau.

The members have the use of the dark room, and all materials at any time during and after school.

During the second semester, a contest for members was conducted. Prints and enlargements were given as prizes for the best work in each division.

The officers are: Robert Eck, president; Robert Winter, vice-president; Dorothy Klusmeyer, secretary; and Elaine Stanzel, treasurer; advisers: Mr. Edwin Erickson and Mr. Noble Anderson.

Of Wild Life

EMBARKING upon a program which included regular meetings, outdoor meetings, roller skating parties, hikes, and numerous other activities, the Audubon Club performed one of the most noteworthy and important tasks of any club at Lincoln, that of teaching and spreading the doctrine of conservation.

The club, advised by Miss Helene Dedrick, elected one group of officers for each semester. The first semester group included Velma Watzke, president; Joseph Carbon, vice-president; Charles Groffman, treasurer; and Grace Carbon, secretary. During the second semester, they elected Elmer Halvorsen, president; Rosemary Huske, vice-president; Joseph Lakatos, treasurer; and Arline Benishek, secretary.

Perhaps the most enjoyable and educational activity of the first semester was the trip to the State Game and Fur Farm at Poynette. Other phases of the club program included constructing and setting up feeding stations at the Lincoln and Silver Creek Parks, an outdoor meeting at Two Rivers State Park, and a winter sports party on January 17.

During Wild Life Week, club members undertook the sale of Wild Life Stamps, priding themselves on distributing $24 worth. During this week, they also sponsored an evening of free movies, dealing with current conservation topics.

In May, Audubon members traveled to Alverno, where they took part in the planting of a forest of 1,000 trees, under the direction of Mr. H. L. Weavers, county agent, and a committee composed of the following boys: Lester Shimon, Raymond Kodet, Joseph Carbon, and Joseph Lakatos.

We give you the club recipe:

Twenty-five eager girls. One pinch of ambition. Hearty good measures of the following: Strong constitution, desire to learn cookery, ability to master the art, healthy appetite.

Have you ever had the desire, but not the training to cook? The Junior Girls' Cooking Club not only has the inclination, but also the knowledge of successful cookery. At each meeting they decide what they're going to prepare for the next club meeting.

Where is all this knowledge of cookery going to get these girls? When they were asked this question, they just looked at each other and smiled; but your guess may be as good as mine.

The girls like variety, so during one of their meetings they visited the test kitchen at the Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Company. They observed how new recipes were tried and also how the new inventions in cooking utensils were tested.

The club is under the able supervision of Miss Grace Miller. The officers are: president, Shirley Kreimann; vice-president, Carol Krohn; secretary, Joanne Kober; and treasurer, Elaine Winter.

To the Art of Cooking add twenty-five senior girls. Result: Culinary Arts Club.

Delicious, appetizing, well-cooked food can work magic all the way from finding ways to masculine hearts to the quieting of the steady buzz of busy tongues belonging to the fairer sex. The magic touch that this club can bestow on you is something to think about.

As you go through the halls, the savory fragrance of cooking tempts you; and then you know that the Culinary Arts Club is having a meeting.

These senior girls meet every two weeks under the direction of Miss Dorothy Cain. Their meetings are informal. The girls at each table decide at the previous meeting what they will prepare. The majority of their attempts in cooking have been quite successful; and they claim that with a little more time and practice, they will develop an infallible technique.

The club officers are: president, Mildred Bauer; vice-president, Elaine Karbon; secretary, Delores Pionek; and treasurer, Dorothy Fiet.

THE way to the Fine Arts is through the eye of a needle! These maidens not only learn to feel at ease when wielding a needle, but they also learn to crochet and knit; and a number of them have become expert in beadwork, making moccasins and decorative novelties. Needles and pins are important articles to these young ladies, not just strange implements on the sewing table as they so often appear to the novice.

The girls of this club have learned the value of order, and the importance of putting things in their proper places so they can be found easily when they are needed.

Club members have given the name Fine Arts to their organization to indicate that handiwork is really an art, not merely a necessity. The work that the girls have accomplished proves the choice of name suitable.

This organization combines social activities with a worth-while occupation. Busy hands make happy hearts, and the girls are both happy and busy at their work. They make new friends and learn many new things.

Officers of the club are: president, Doris Vetting; vice-president, Grace Rysticken; secretary, Maxine Wigen; treasurer, Betty Wunrow; and Miss Muriel Batz, adviser.

Arch supreme

To Cupid, who shoots arrows through our hearts, may go the credit for the Archery Club. This group was organized in 1937 with fifteen members for the purpose of learning how to make and use bows and arrows. Under the guidance of Miss Frances Ritchie, this work continues today. This year Mildred Peterson, junior, Ellen McCambridge and Beverly Zankle, sophomores, joined as new members. All other names have been on the roll call for two or more years.

In spring and fall, targets are set up on the campus for outdoor practice. The winter is spent in completing equipment.

The meetings are held in the natatorium entrance hall. In this small but adequate space, the members spend part of the year in arrow making. This takes in many processes, mainly melting wax for tips, and cutting and setting turkey feathers for the arrow ends.

Besides working on their equipment, they have occasional parties. Food served buffet style heightens the informality at these gatherings where everyone is guest, hostess, and maid.

The reward for these archers will be a better knowledge of archery equipment and its care, improvement in shooting, and the many friendships made. Since fourteen of the members are being graduated this year, only three members and Miss Ritchie will be left to carry on the club's work.

Officers for the year were: Virginia Stout, president; Carol Pasewalk, vice-president; Jane Zeman, treasurer; and Ruth Schmitt, secretary.

PERSONALITY

WHEN clubs become as unusual and different as the Personality Club, it makes an interesting story; and the Personality Club definitely is just that novelty. It was formed by a group of junior girls who evidently are the type ever seeking to improve. The purpose of the club is unique, with the general plan being to encourage the improvement of each member.

Although the term "general improvement" is rather broad, the club's activities are just as extensive. The primary objective is to improve each girl's personality; but subjects such as make-up and new fashions are also discussed.

To act as the guiding spirit of the club, four officers were elected. They are: Helen Wallace, president; Jane Jacobson, vice-president; Charlotte Burger, secretary; and Margie Keery, treasurer. Miss Helen Van Dyke acts as the adviser.

Included on the program for the club are topics on feminine styles and various types of make-up. A round table method of discussion is followed.

Often books on subjects relating to personality development are drawn from the library and their contents debated. One of the most interesting was a book, "This Happened To Me", by Helen Ferris, dealing with traits a girl should not possess.

The club also is valuable as a clearing house for the pros and cons of beauty aids for girls, and it provides a source of information that is always useful.

VERSATILITY

THE program of the Library Board might be summarized in two words — entertainment and education. Activities range from lectures on library technique to the presentation of the annual Amateur Hour.

Let us examine a few excerpts from the minute book.

October 17, 1939: Elections were held. Robert Butler, Cletus Zinkel, Earl Adams, and Virginette Wotruba were chosen for the seats of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

November 8, 1939: After the business session was over, a professional librarian spoke on the fundamentals of library work.

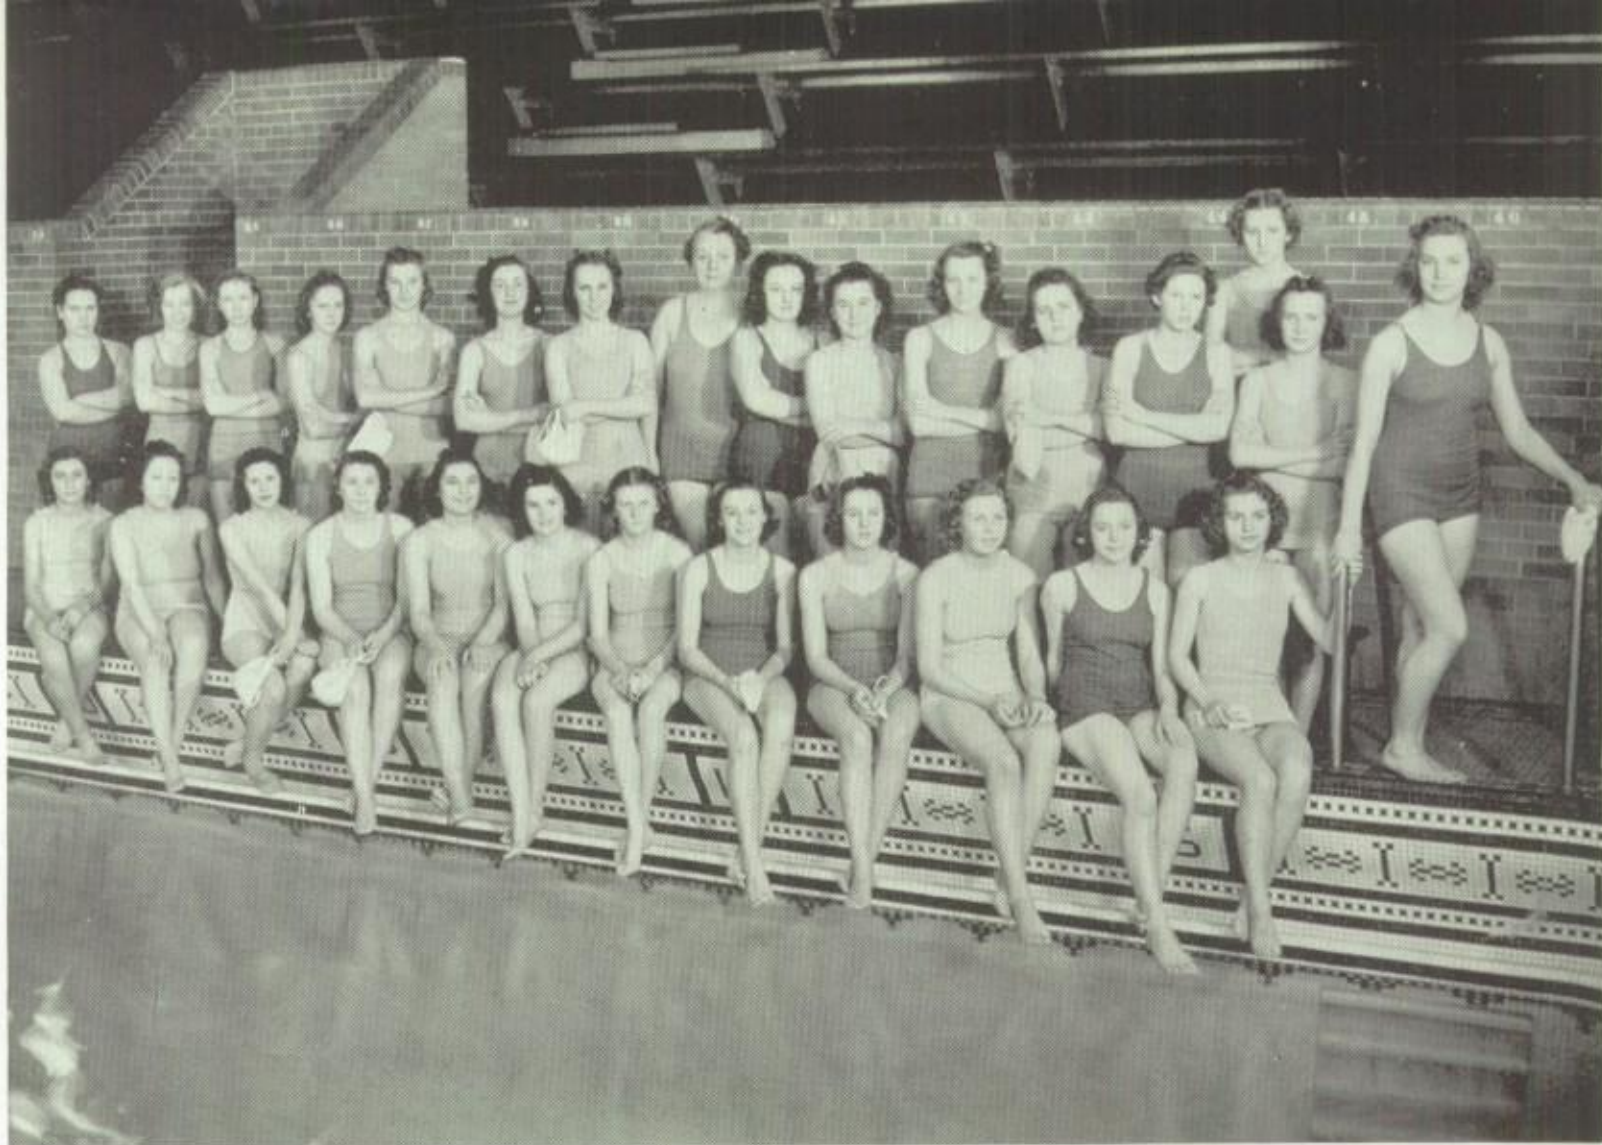

November 22, 1939: Plans were made for the Christmas party.

December 23, 1939: Christmas party captured all the old-fashioned Yuletide spirit. Sweets were abundant.

January 31, 1940: Miss Edith Zander amused the board with a talk on her experiences as a social worker at Hull House.

February 14, 1940: Valentine's Day party.

March 13, 1940: Amateur magicians of the Talent Club presented a performance that was amateur in name only.

"HELP! Help! I can't swim." To the rescue comes a Junior Life Saver.

Lincoln's Junior Life Saving Club is an organization of twenty-five girls, interested in swimming, who realize the importance of life-saving. The purpose of this club is not only to enable the girls to win their life-saving emblems, but also to give those who are afraid of the water or who have not had the opportunity to learn how to swim, their one big opportunity.

All of them believe in hard and conscientious work, supervised by Miss Janet Strathearn and Miss Clementine Dolan. Some day their labors may be rewarded when to one of the pupil's proud chest a medal is pinned for her valiant efforts and final success in saving the life of some unfortunate person.

While a great deal of time is spent in practicing strokes and carriage, some time is given to play. The girls have many different and exciting forms of amusement. They compete in hard and exhausting relays. One group is at the diving board; another is straining at the rope in the ever popular "Tug of War." Others may be seen playing ball in the water. The girls' interests in the club are stimulated by this type of recreation and by the work of their officers who are: president, Lorraine Ziarnik; vice-president, Ruth Butz; secretary-treasurer, Marcia Platten.

The world pays homage to the men who started life saving, and Lincoln High School should likewise honor and respect the Junior Life Saving Club.

ENTHUSIASM for swimming runs high among the boys in Lincoln. Therefore, the Neptune Tankers and Sophomore "Buoys" Swimming Club have combined in order to enjoy the pleasures which water sports afford. These organizations were made possible when the boys were given the use of the pool every other Wednesday, alternating with the girls.

The club membership is composed of many notable figures on the swimming team. Among them are: Herman Lutz, a diver who placed first in every meet he participated in this year; Robert Ferguson, competitor in the fifty and one-hundred yard free style; Hilary Koch, breast stroke swimmer; and Gerald Meissner, who swims the two-hundred yard free style. Of course, this is only a small percentage of the total number, but it helps to prove the popularity of the club.

Life-saving work is stressed and during the meetings boys are busily engaged in learning the various carriages and holds, typical of this kind of work. Possibly in the future, one of the group will be a handsome life-guard, patrolling the shores of some lake to protect residents of that locality from meeting death through drowning.

Some of the water sports which the boys enjoy are: water polo, water basketball, tug-of-war, and races with relay teams. Others may be seen practicing at the diving board to perfect their form.

The officers of the Neptune Tankers are: president, Douglas Aretz; vice-president, Paul Tikalsky; secretary-treasurer, Oscar Lindemann. Those of the Sophomore "Buoys" are: president, Dennis Edwards; vice-president, Melvin Shedivy; and secretary-treasurer, Calvin Baird. Both clubs are advised by Mr. Gordon Winder.

Out of the 124 seniors eligible for the Flambeau Senior Ace award, twenty-seven with the highest averages and most activities have been chosen in order of precedence. Selection is limited to 7.5 per cent of the senior class. The higher the scholastic average, the fewer awards needed. Generally speaking, the students with averages between 90 and 85 must have earned more than one award to receive this appointment. (A) stands for athletics, (F) for forensics, (M) music, and (P) publications. Numbers which precede Aces' names indicate positions of pictures.

Leaders OF

Amid balloting and campaigning on a small scale, old and new students choose their leaders at the beginning of each school year. Reading from the top, down, are class presidents: Owen Clark, senior; William Donohue, junior; Clifton Champagne, sophomore.

FOLLOWING the regulations set down by former classes, the students of Lincoln High School step to the polls every fall and elect as officers those who they think are most representative of their class. The whole procedure is modeled after a public election. A primary is held and the candidates are chosen, and then a final vote is taken to determine the officers. The three classes have their respective polling rooms, and the voting is secret.

Gardy Weber, junior vice-president, was absent when picture was taken.

Using "freedom of the press" to their advantage, these scribblers make the life of Lincoln students more fun through their producing the Flashes, Manitou, and Flambeau. Best known for their "lighter works", they're capable of unusual bits of profound thought when the occasion demands.

CHOSEN for their outstanding work on the various publications, nineteen students were recommended by Miss Margaret Reuter, director of publications, for appointment to the Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists.

To be eligible for a recommendation to the national secretary, the candidates must have done superior work in writing, editing, or business management on the publications, and must be in the upper third of their class scholastically at the time of their election.

Three of the members are juniors, and two of the group were selected from the 3-in-1 circulation department that serves all three publications: the Hi-Tower Flashes, the Manitou, and the Flambeau.

The students who are accepted into the Quill and Scroll receive a membership pin and a year's subscription to the national magazine.

An all-important man of finances is Walter Huchthausen, head of the 3-in-1 plan, as he leans back in his chair and collects a time payment from Mildred Peterson, homeroom representative. Howard Goodhew, Walter's right-hand man, watches the transaction with a shrewd and experienced eye.

COMING with flying colors through its second successful year of business, and proudly displaying its slogan "A Quarter a Quarter", the 3-in-1 plan records how and why students favor paying on the installment plan.

Under this arrangement a student may receive his Hi-Tower Flashes, Manitou, and Flambeau at a total cost of $1.75, which is much lower than if he bought each one separately. Bringing in the installment plan idea, a down payment of fifty cents is made at the beginning of the year and the balance is paid to the tune of "a quarter a quarter for five quarters."

This system has become increasingly popular. Over 900 students subscribed to the plan this year. They find it inexpensive, because reduced rates are given; easier, because one is more able to pay a quarter or fifty cents than a lump sum; far more convenient, because each homeroom throughout the building has an authorized press manager to whom the payments are made and from whom receipts and publications are received.

Publication day and all its joys are vividly pictured by Bill Johnson, circulation manager, and an assistant, Carol Jane Phalen, as they tackle the job of distributing the news, hot off the press, to the awaiting student world. There isn't a minute to spare, for homerooms as well as lockers must be "serviced"; but Bill takes care that everyone is satisfied.

Meanwhile, balancing the books and keeping them out of the red are General Manager Walter Huchthausen, senior, and his assistant, Howard Goodhew, junior. Through them all accounts are taken care of, and the machinery of this gigantic plan runs smoothly.

At the time when the plan was a half-defined dream, publications were sold, paid for, and delivered separately, a difficult system for a school the size of Lincoln. It was not until 1938 that the present 3-in-1 plan was perfected.

Pinch a penny here and there, and before you know it you've bought your three publications.

1 Parliamentary procedure was the first order of the day for these three responsible for the 1940 Flambeau. As editor, Doris Wage has had a part in planning every page and on her shoulders has rested the responsibility of final decisions. Robert Bayne, right, photography editor, brought the newest things in photography to the book with the help of his assistant, Chester Armstrong, not pictured. Morten Tveten, business manager, has taken care of the financial worries. With Adviser Margaret Reuter, their aim has been to publish a Flambeau of the students, by the students, and for the students.

Lincoln

AFTER receiving a Pacemaker award, the third in Lincoln history, the "Manitouers" are able to breathe freely. There were only two other secondary school Pacemakers in the nation so honored by the N.S.P.A. this year, and, consequently, Lincoln High School feels proud to have published one of the "top-notchers."

Director and editors saw the contest material come and go, completed page make-up, designed novelty sections, and read galley, page, and press proofs into the early hours of the morning.

Students holding chief positions were Gretchen Thiede, editor, and Irene McNeil and Raymond Pabian, associate editors.

The magazine material was furnished by nearly 700 students who entered the Manitou contest in November.

The force behind the editorial staff was responsible for the business plans. Assisting Business Manager William Thoke were Ione Krueger and Mary Gibbs. About fifty persons worked in the business, advertising, and circulation departments.

At the head of the pseudo-army is Publications Director Margaret Reuter who has added the 1940 Manitou to her fast-accumulating list of victories. The magazine's art adviser is Mrs. Cleeta Pultz.

In charge of circulation problems was Mary Gibbs, left.

THE Hi-Tower Flashes, Lincoln newspaper, this year was awarded an All-American rating by the National Scholastic Press Association. This special honor is given only to the best high school newspapers in the United States, and the Flashes has received it but once before.

Credit for putting out a newspaper that is really informative as well as entertaining should go to Editor Max Tauschek and his gallant staff of departmental heads, reporters, copy editors, and proof editors.

It's no easy job, working on a newspaper, and these students who have spent their time throughout the year in the intelligent gathering and writing of news deserve commendation. It takes perseverance-plus to publish an accurate, balanced, refreshing newspaper. They have performed a mountainous task and have done it in All-American style.

Another milestone in the plan of a student-run school was "The Song of the City", incorporating an operetta and the annual gym exhibit through the efforts of Irene McNeil and the Creative Writing Class. Depicting Manitowoc in its pioneer days, the "pagibit" was as historically correct as possible. All parts were portrayed by Lincoln notables and directed by Mr. R. W. Boyd, Miss Frances Ritchie, Mr. John M. V. Stevenson, Mr. Gordon Winder, and Miss Dorothy Cain.

FOOTBALL

Fame as a streamlined Lincoln machine drove to the top of the Fox River Valley conference to share the 1939 title with the two Green Bays. In losing only to the classy Red Devils from East, Manitowoc bettered the previous Red and White record established in 1930. That season, Lincoln lost only one game, but also tied one. Last year's success was made possible when the Ships came through with a sparkling 7 to 0 victory over an air-minded West squad.

Kenneth Schmitt, dependable quarterback, and Arthur Albrecht, pivot-man-de-luxe, were elected honorary co-captains at the close of the season.

Coaches Nello Pacetti, Al Guepe, and John Jung, a new mentor, brought the squad along in remarkable fashion. Mr. Pacetti's teams have compiled the fine record of eighteen victories against six defeats in his three years at Manitowoc.

SUMMARY OF GAMES

September 16 Manitowoc 7 Two Rivers 0

Harland Manthey slipped through tackle for a touchdown early in the first quarter; but after that, Lincoln marched up and down the field in vain. Terrific heat probably accounted for the somewhat ragged play.

September 22 Manitowoc 14 Fond du Lac 6

In a game played under the lights at Fondy, the Ships took advantage of the breaks to defeat the Cardinals, 14 to 6. Leland Hansen and Harland Manthey were outstanding for Manitowoc.

September 30 Manitowoc 33 Appleton 0

Coach Pacetti used three full teams and they all clicked as Manitowoc trounced Appleton's Terrors, 33 to 0. The most spectacular play of the game was Harland Manthey's seventy-two yard run for the first touchdown. The score at the half read: Manitowoc 13, Appleton 0.

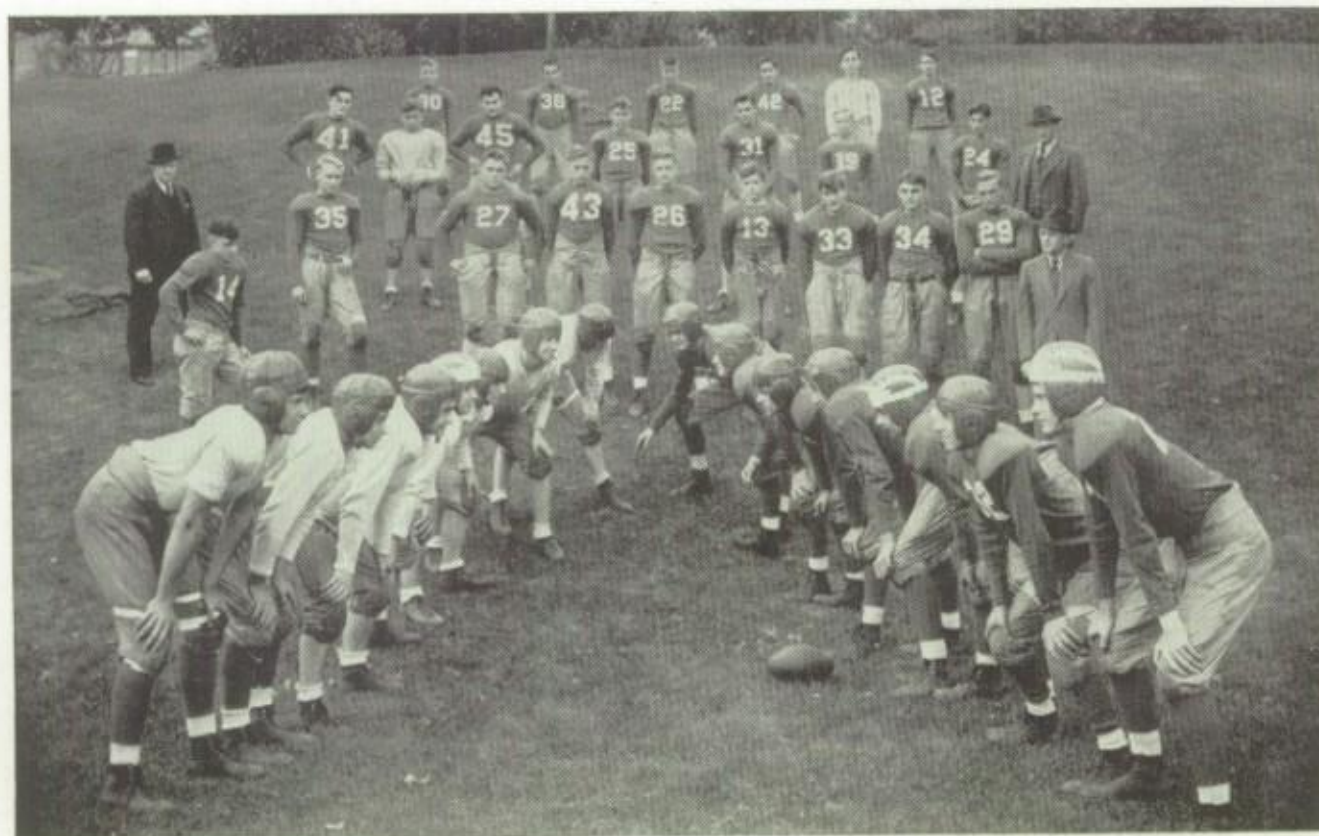

SECOND TEAM — FOOTBALL

Manty Beats West To Cop Title

October 14 Manitowoc 14 Oshkosh 0

Manitowoc remained undefeated by taking the Oshkosh Indians into camp, 14 to 0. Lincoln scored through the air, Harland Manthey to Roy Steckmesser, and on an intercepted pass which Clifton Champagne ran back twenty-six yards.

October 21 Manitowoc 0 East Green Bay 23

East struck suddenly three times to defeat a Manitowoc team that was plainly off form. Frequent penalties handicapped Lincoln and the Ships were never in the ball game after the half.

October 28 Manitowoc 28 Sheboygan North 6

Manitowoc bounced back to beat Sheboygan North easily. Rhinert Tadych, Gardy Weber, and Harland Manthey took care of the scoring.

November 4 Manitowoc 7 West Green Bay 0

An inspired Lincoln squad toppled the powerful West Green Bay Wildcats, marking the first time in nine years that a Manty eleven has beaten a Bay school. Gardy Weber scored Manitowoc's touchdown on an eight-yard reverse.

November 10 Manitowoc 21 Sheboygan Central 7

The Ships outclassed Sheboygan Central in their final game, played in freezing weather. Rhinert Tadych, Harland Manthey, and Roy Steckmesser scored Lincoln's touchdowns. "Reliable Red" Tadych converted the three extra points. Central scored its touchdown in the closing seconds when Coach Pacetti had his reserves in the game.

THESE SHIPS SWIM

LINCOLN'S tankers, definitely lacking championship material, managed to salvage two wins from a tough schedule. They defeated a pair of local teams, University of Wisconsin Freshmen and the Alumni, by the identical scores of 46 to 27. The Manty swimming team didn't fare so well against outside squads, but was pitted against teams of the calibre of Wauwatosa, state champions.

William Koepke, who scored 27 points this year in winning his third swimming letter, was elected captain. But it was Herman Lutz, diver par excellence, who captured scoring honors with 40 points. He was followed closely by Royalton Holzschuh with 38-2/3 and Earl Adams with 30-2/3. Dennis Edwards, sophomore superman, garnered 24 points.

The list of letter winners follows: Herman Lutz, Royalton Holzschuh, Earl Adams, William Koepke, Dennis Edwards, Lloyd Stueck, Richard Spjut, Robert Ferguson, John Nimz, John Hahn, Peter Stueck, William Williamson, John Dalrymple, and Kurt Narten, manager.

This year the Manty swim team was composed of many sophomores and juniors, which indicates that the Ships will sail with the best of them in coming seasons. More power to these tankers and their coach, Mr. Gordon Winder.

THE BASKETBALL WORLD

There are thrills and excitement galore when Lincoln's cagers entertain in the local gym. But Mr. and Mrs. Average Fan don't get a chance to see behind scenes. So follow the Flambeau's ace photographer through thick and thin as he conducts his candid campaign.

MANTY CAGERS Place

by Max Tauschek
Hi-Tower Flashes

ALTHOUGH hampered by the fact that there were no returning lettermen and only four returning veterans from last year's squad, the Lincoln basketball team won four out of fourteen conference games for a sixth place rating, and defeated two of their five non-conference foes. It was Mr. A. J. Guepe's first year as coach.

Manty started the season by defeating Kiel, 39-28, here, November 24; but five days later dropped one to St. Mary's of Menasha by a disheartening 22-21 score. In a return game, Manitowoc also lost to St. Mary's, 36-28. In the last warm-up game, Manty edged out Two Rivers 22-20, here, December 5.

The local boys couldn't seem to get clicking at first when they dropped four straight conference games to Oshkosh, 47-26; West, 26-19; Sheboygan Central, 29-21; and Fond du Lac, 25-21. The Ships came back to defeat East Green Bay, 17-13; and won over Appleton, 31-27. Things looked pretty rosy just then.

Then came the return game with Two Rivers. They're still talking about it up there, and we mention it only by way of record, which is self-explanatory; Two Rivers 45, Manitowoc 23.

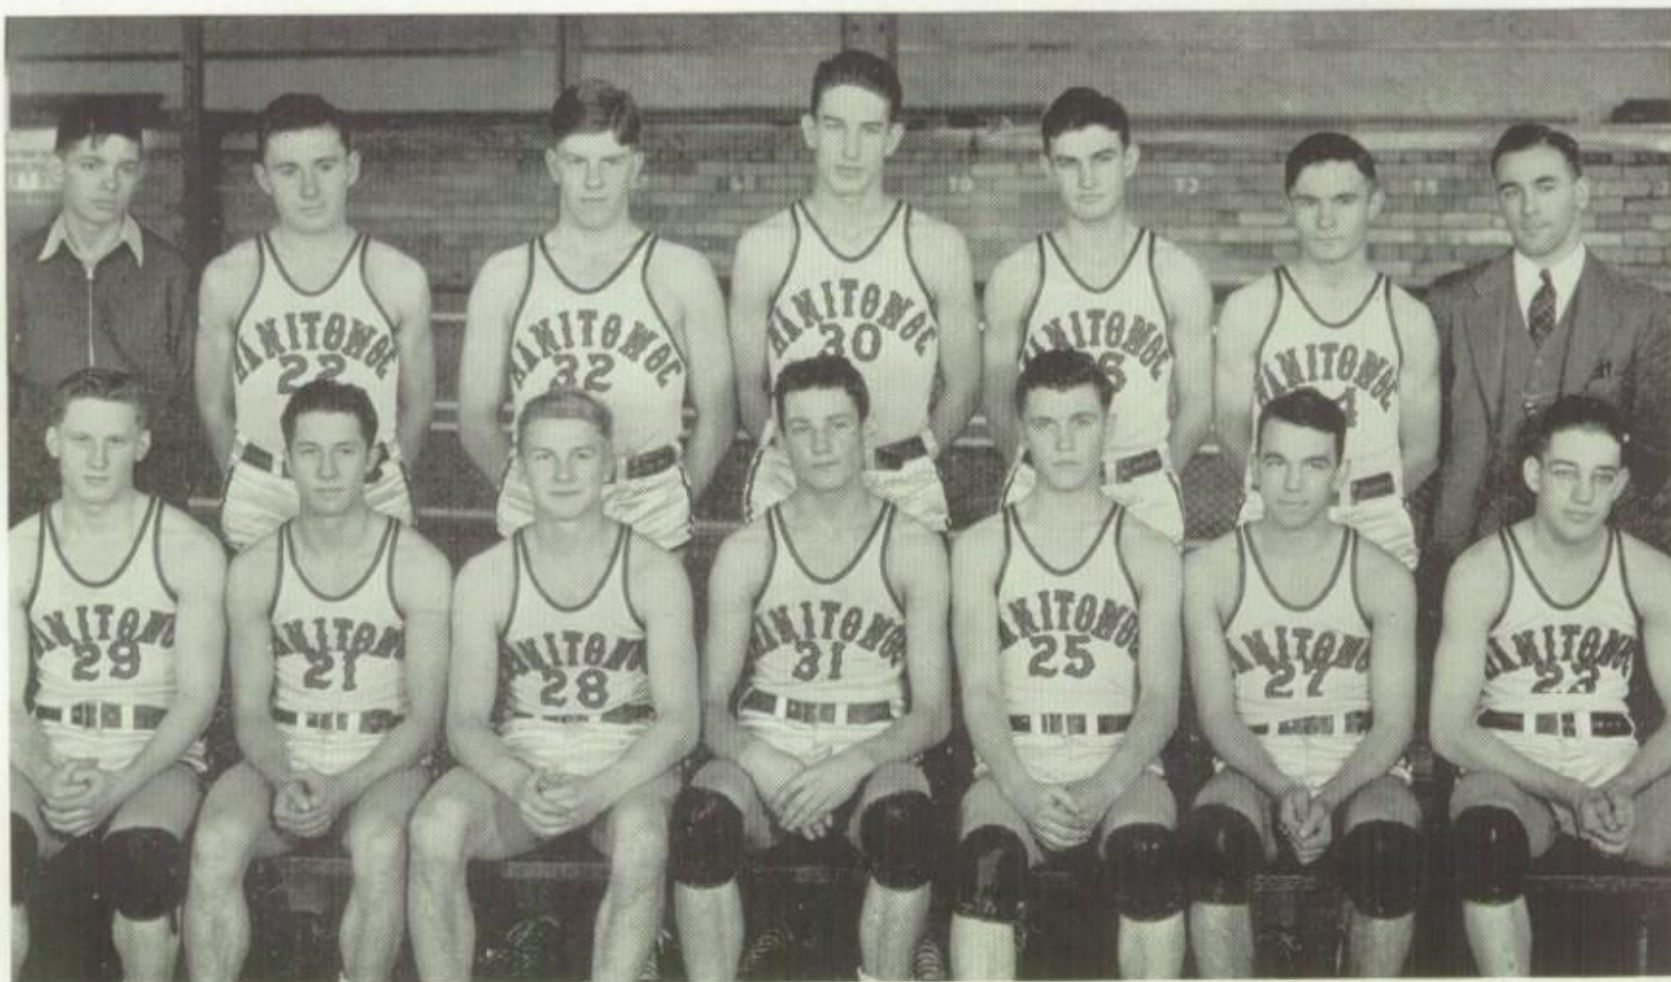

The Ships came back into the conference race by defeating Sheboygan North, 26-21, and then lost to the championship Oshkosh squad by a slight three points, 34-31. At this time, the local boys couldn't seem to hit their stride; and four days later they dropped a double-overtime thriller to West Green Bay, 34-32.

The Ships dropped three more: one to Central, 44-30; one to Fond du Lac, 36-33; and another to East Green Bay, 29-21, before coming back to defeat Sheboygan North, 31-16. Closing the season at Appleton, the Ships lost another heart-breaker, this time by one point, 27-26, for a sixth place in the Fox River Valley conference.

FIRST TEAM — BASKETBALL

Sixth In Valley

Letter-winners on Mr. Guepe's team were: Harland Manthey, Donald Wolfgram, Rhinert Tadych, Roy Steckmesser, Paul Kelley, and Leland Hansen, seniors; Jack Krohn, junior; and Clifton Champagne, sophomore. John Dufek received a manager's award.

Lincoln's junior varsity, coached by Mr. John Jung, again came through with flying colors by losing only two games and taking undisputed possession of the Jayvee Valley crown. They lost to the Fond du Lac B's by a 17-12 score and were defeated by the East Green Bay team in a hard-fought 17-16 battle. They won the remainder of their fourteen game schedule.

Members of the second team were: Gerald Paskoski, Glenn Ferdon, Bernard Knauer, Robert Zimmermann, Albert Nelesen, Robert Verkins, George Ziegelbauer, John Kott, Gerald Pilger, Melvin Kelley, Harry Ziarnik, Edwin Gorychka, and William Zimmerman. Herbert Kiekhaefer acted as manager.

A bit of high living as Roy Steckmesser (30) and Gerald Paskoski (24) go up to take the ball away from Fondy.

SECOND TEAM — BASKETBALL

Row 2—Herbert Kiekhaefer, manager; John Kott, Gerald Pilger, Melvin Kelley, Harry Ziarnik, Edwin Gorychka, William Zimmermann, Mr. John E. Jung, coach.

When they won the Junior Varsity title, Lincoln's second basketball team served warning to conference schools to watch Manitowoc in the future. The seconds, coached by Mr. John Jung, showed a smooth working offense and airtight defense.

WITH five veterans returning, Lincoln's tennis team gave a good account of itself throughout a bruising schedule. Co-captains Leroy Bruechert and John Belgum led a field of fifty candidates which included experienced players such as Dick Egan, Robert Zimmermann, and Albert Nelesen.

This year letters were again awarded by a point system. By this method, players earned points in the following ways: hours of practice, sets won in practice, and participation in meets. The last possibility counted more, as did winning a match. The five high men automatically won letters, and this group and the coach elected three more.

Bruechert was the number-one singles man, with the Zimmermann-Nelesen combination threatening Belgum and Bruechert for the top-ranking doubles position. Several new-comers caught the eyes of Coaches Ernest Ludwig and Newton Jones. Outstanding among these were William Meissner, William Zimmermann, and Peter Jenkyn, sophomores, and Robert Hendries, junior.

In their initial meet, the Lincolmites went down in a heart-breaking 4-3 defeat, before a tough Sheboygan North squad. Then the Ships came back to trounce Central 7-0. The following week Oshkosh took the Ships' measure, 7-0.

LINCOLN'S men of the cinder path, conference dark-horses, opened their campaign unsuccessfully against Appleton. Although losing the meet 62-2/5 to 49-3/5, Manty indicated that it would be nobody's doormat. However, at Green Bay, the Ships bowed to a strong East aggregation 69 to 44.

Manitowoc took to the road to fill the rest of their engagements, clashing with the two Sheboygan schools for the first time in history.

An experienced senior squad copped the annual inter-class meet held April 19, nosing out the juniors by nine points.

The shining stars in the field were Robert Verkins, quarter-miler; Gardy Weber, sprinter; and Kenneth Schmitt, hurdler. Also included in a potent set of hurdlers were Paul Vollendorf and Herman Lutz, juniors.

Leonard Vandebusch, veteran half-miler, and Robert Traurig, sophomore miler, were outstanding for Lincoln in the distances. LenRoy Koutnik and Arthur Albrecht carried the weights on their husky shoulders. Manty depended upon Rhinert Tadych and Clifton Champagne for points in the pole vault.

Be a SPORT, fellows

INTRAMURALS, sponsored by Mr. Gordon Winder, athletic director, again give every boy in school the opportunity to participate in sports. A large number of boys took advantage of the extensive athletic program carried on throughout the year. The sports offered included football, basketball, volleyball, badminton, checkers, ping-pong, horseshoe, and bicycle racing.

The football championship was won by the Bears, after which the Goons, captained by Adolph Satterburg, copped the basketball title. Marvin Wier and Charles Wilda won the horseshoe and ping-pong tournaments, respectively; and William Cushman came in first in the bicycle race.

Albert Strong, who acted as intramural manager, will continue in that capacity next year.

working hard

Arlene Riebe, a high-point senior member and a typical GAA athlete, gives us several excellent reasons for her membership:

"I never thought that belonging to an athletic organization could be so much fun until I joined the GAA three years ago. Besides having loads of good times participating in athletics, I also receive points for sports which are applied to an award. I have almost enough for my 'M'."

"When the weather gets warm, we play off our various tournaments outside. There are field hockey, tennis, ping-pong, archery, basketball, and many others, so everyone has a chance to participate in her favorite sport."

"But don't think we do nothing but play off matches. We have an annual boy-and-girl party, to which one girl takes another and pays the expenses; a hare-and-hound chase; and a treasure-hunt. After the last two, we have a steak fry or something of the sort, and enjoy pick-up lunches."

"There are two sisters as officers now: Lenore John is president; Marjorie John, vice-president; and Doris Schuette, secretary-treasurer, with Bonnie Ludwig as her assistant."

"But let me show you some of the snaps we took . . ."
